HUCKSTERS FILE THEIR PROTEST

Proposed Tax Would Work Hardship on Suburban Residents.

Tuesday morning a protest signed by hucksters and valley farmers objecting to the passage of the proposed ordinance which will require the further licensing the hucksters, was filed with the city clerk and will be considered before the ordinance is read at the council meeting Thursday.

Commenting on the protest, R. L. Nichols, attorney for the protestants, said Tuesday morning: "We will have all the suburban residents with us, for it is impossible to secure green goods in these districts in any other way than from the hucksters. The small grocers in the suburbs have no facilities for keeping produce and consequently the housewives depend upon the hucksters."

The hucksters and those who patronize them say that the proposed ordinance will completely put them out of business, as, while it does not tax those who sell their own products, they will handle a few berries or fruits which they have to buy and would thus have to pay the license.

Hixson's special this week is $1.75 cuff links for 75c.

FELONS WERE TO COME HERE

and as soon as we arrive one of us will be there at those hours looking for you. Now if something turns up that will prevent you from getting to El Paso in time, write a letter telling us where you are and address it to Frank Clifford, Gen. Del., El Paso, and if something should turn up on our end that would prevent us from getting where I will write you a letter to Gen. Del., El Paso, telling you where we are. I will address the letter to J. E. Morgan, the same as this one.

Expected To Have Plenty of Money. Now, I think I have explained everything and there is no reason why we shouldn't meet again in a few weeks at the most.

I would like to see you again, old sport. You are all right, and I will never forget what you have done for me and if we meet in El Paso there will be plenty of money on board and I will set them up in grand style. So good-bye, old pal, and good luck to you. Your old friend, Harry.

P. S.—Destroy this letter immediately after reading.

Brophy's letters show not only the over-anguine confidence of youth, but they disclose the criminal lack of foresight and underestimate of opposing forces. They have no syllable of doubt or of failure, nor reckoning of the difficulties to be encountered, and in a measure they explain the reckless disregard of consequences displayed by him when he stood at the open, barred window of the cell-house, a plain and easily fraught with the elements of the mortality seeker. His prison life was marked by a series of breaches of discipline. With the class of prisoners who are a real menace to society Brophy's courage and daring made him a leader, and in a way that is analogous to the world's worship of a hero, he received the adulation of youthful criminals and had but little difficulty in inducing some of them to follow his directions. Morton was one of those who fell under his influence, and being imbued with the true criminal's conception of fealty, violation of his promises and the way to ruin was to him were but incidents in a life destined to crime.

Paul Morton, or Morgan, was paroled March 26 with the understanding that he was to go at once to Pullman, Ind., where his father lives, but instead of keeping his word he returned to the prison one night between that date and the 25th of April and cased in the rock quarry back of the prison six sticks of dynamite, and a box of cartridges with the purpose of aiding Brophy and the other insurrectionary prisoners not only to kill, but to destroy and do wanton murder.

Respects To Be Paid.

He was to meet Brophy and Williams afterwards and join them in a career of crime, the magnitude of which may only be judged by a conception of their daring, unscrupulous minds.

$1.75 Cuff links while they last for only 75c at Hixson's.

A PRODUCT OF NATURE Warned into life by the sun shining on Southern Cotton Fields, nurtured by rain and dew, the Cotton plant concentrates in its seed that life-giving and life-sustaining quality which is the basis of Cottolene. From cotton field to kitchen, human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made. It is a product of nature. Lard comes from the fat of the hog—often impure, always indigestible. Cottolene, on the contrary, is made from vegetable oil, and jelly made from the juice of choicest fruit is not more pure or easily digested than this product of the oil expressed from the kernel of the Cotton seed.

CORPORATION TAX CASE RESET FOR HEARING

Supreme Court Will Hear New Arguments on Noted Cases.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—The supreme court of the United States today set the corporation taxes cases for re-argument at the beginning of the next term before the full bench.

Taft's Idea. President Taft regarded as the father of the corporation tax idea as represented in this statute. He evolved it during the discussion of tariff legislation and income and inheritance taxes in 1908-1909. As a result, congress passed the Corporation Tax Law into the Payne-Aldrich tariff act passed by congress last summer. It became section 2 of that statute.

Provisions of the Law. The law subjected to tax in a general way every corporation, joint stock company, or association, organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company. The tax was designated as a "gross" tax, with respect to the carrying on or doing business, and it was provided that it should be "equivalent to one per cent upon the entire net income over and above $5000 received from all sources during the year. There were to be excluded from the income, however, amounts received as dividends upon stock of other organizations, subjected to the tax. Exempted from the tax were certain organizations, such as labor, agricultural, horticultural and fraternal beneficiary societies.

Publicity of Return. One paragraph of the law provided for the publicity of the returns required as a basis of fixing the tax. The tax was to be paid on or before June 30 of each year and the returns for each year were to be made by April 1. It was provided that the tax should be paid for the year ending June 30, 1910, although the law was not passed until August 5, 1909.

Not until shortly before the expiration of the time for the making of the returns, when the first move was made to test the validity of the tax. This movement to test the great question about the corporation law started in the little town of Windsor, Vermont.

There Maxwell Evans, a New York lawyer, son of the late William M. Evans, has a summer home. He had of late noticed the keen competition between the two great mercantile stores in the town, the Stone Tracy company, a corporation, and Dwight Tuxbury & Sons, a partnership concern. He saw what he believed was a determining factor against the corporation if it were compelled to pay the tax and make public its business arrangements, and so accepted the position of counsel for Stella P. Flint, as general guardian of the property of Samuel N. Stone, Jr., a minor, who owned stock in the Stone Tracy Co. Suit was brought in the federal court by Mr. Evans to enjoin the corporation from making the return, by paying the tax, on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. The corporation filed a demurrer, which was sustained and the bill dismissed. An appeal was taken to the supreme court.

Signal For More Suits.

The institution of the Flint-Stone-Tracy case was the signal for the bringing of suits in many sections of the United States. All were decided in the same way, and almost invariably appeals were taken to the supreme court. The government was allowed to intervene. Fifteen cases, headed by the Flint-Stone-Tracy suit, were set for argument on March 14.

Many Cases Heard.

Besides the Vermont case, those heard were: Wyckoff Van Dusen vs. The Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad company. Francis L. Hine vs. Home Life Insurance company of New York. Fred W. Smith vs. The Northern Trust company, of Chicago. William H. Miner vs. The Corn Exchange National Bank, of Chicago. Cedar Street company vs. Park Realty company, of New York. Lewis W. Jared vs. The American Multiple company, of Cleveland. Joseph E. Gay vs. The Baltic Mining company, a Michigan corporation. Percy H. Brundage vs. Broadway Realty company, of New York. Paul Lacroix vs. Motor Taximeter Cab company, of New York. Arthur L. Johnson vs. The Borough Rapid Transit company, of New York. George Wendell Phillips vs. Fifty Associates, of Boston. Oscar Mitchell vs. Clark Iron Works, a Minnesota corporation. Katherine Cary Cook vs. Boston Wharf company.

Two Days In Argument.

Two days were consumed in the argument of the cases in the supreme court. William D. Guthrie, of New York, counsel for the Home Life Insurance

A SENSATION IS CREATED

ness of the Republican party, according to the announcement made here this morning, supposed to have come from collector Loeb, of the port of New York, who is regarded as the political representative of the former president during his absence.

Democrats, discussing the announcement today, expressed great interest in developments and are wondering what Roosevelt will do if the tariff law is made one of the issues by the Democratic nominee for the governorship of Texas. The standard Republicans insist that it means Roosevelt will support the administration. Insurgents approached had nothing to say.

Whether the Texas congressmen and senators will join in repulsing the invasion of Roosevelt or mind their own political fences is a matter for conjecture.

No direct statements were had from Texans today. Roosevelt will spend several months on Cecil Lyon's ranch following the campaign.

Texas Not Surprised. Fort Worth, Texas, May 31.—It was known here several months ago that Mr. Roosevelt is coming to Texas, and will likely enter the state campaign this year, but the announcement from Washington created a stir in local political circles and was the subject of many surmises.

J. J. Nesbit was here Tuesday from Torah, Tex.

PICNIC RESULTS IN A WALKOUT

Employees Decline to Work Though Firm Is Behind With Orders.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 31.—Because the manager of Miller Brothers' overall factory objected to girls going on a picnic Memorial day, as directed by the head of the union, a hundred garment workers struck here this morning, remaining out one hour, the shortest strike ever known in local labor circles. The manager urged his employees to work yesterday, pleading that he was behind with orders and offering double pay.

A reprimand followed this refusal and the picnic yesterday resulted in the brief walkout this morning.
